

Flanagan Butchers has recently been purchased by David Mitchell, a Master Butcher from Crawley, who also has another Multi Award Winning shop in Godalming, Surrey. Flanagans has been in Crawley Down for over 27 years and enjoys a bustling trade. Their reputation has gained them a very loyal customer base, both locally within the village and further afield. After over 35 years in the trade, David is still very passionate, with an interest in animal husbandry and keeps in close contact with local farmers to ensure continuity of exceptional quality. Flanagans employs 9 members of loyal and knowledgeable staff, many of whom have over 20 years experience in butchery, so needless to say customer service is second to none. Customers recently nominated them for the Sussex Food and Drink Awards, a runners up position was secured, which is a huge achievement and reflects the efforts and dedication of staff and incredible support from regulars. David strives to maintain high standards and is keen to remain innovative with many new product ideas, healthy eating options and ready meals.
